

Lonergan University College announces its Interdisciplinary Seminars for 2002-2003

LUCC 398T/4 (catalogue #57192)

TIME: THE 4TH DIMENSION

Other Lonergan Interdisciplinary Courses during 2002-3 are:

LUCC 202/2 and /4

The Creative Self
In Class Schedule, see
INTE 202/2 (catalogue #25984)
and
INTE 202/4 (catalogue #28517)

LUCC 298C/2

(catalogue #78950)
Introduction to Selected
Interdisciplinary
Problems: Approaches
to War and Peace

LUCC 298E/4

(catalogue #56402)
Introduction to Selected
Interdisciplinary
Problems: Creativity
and the Politics of Conflict

LUCC 298F/4

(catalogue #89217)
Introduction to Selected
Interdisciplinary
Problems: Zen and the Modern World

LUCC 398L/4

(catalogue #26805)
Special College Seminar:
The Death of God and the Struggle for Human Meaning

All Lonergan Seminars are open to all students.

Still from Ingmar Bergman's Wild Strawberries (1959)

What is the nature of time? In this course we will approach time from a variety of disciplines, from the biological clock to the theory of relativity, from the use of time in music to temporal expression in film and photography.

Participating Faculty:

Shimon Amir, Dept. of Psychology
Wolfgang Bottenberg, Dept. of Music
William Byers, Dept. of Mathematics
Richard Hancox, Dept. of Communication Studies
Andrew Wayne, Dept. of Philosophy

Winter semester (January-April 2003),
Mondays 14:45-17:30

Concordia UNIVERSITY

Real education for the real world

For further information, call Lonergan College (848-2280), visit us on the Web at concordia.ca/lonergan, or drop in and see the College at 7302 Sherbrooke St.W., at the corner of West Broadway (Loyola Campus).